Campus News

Time to turn your radio-listening habit to KUR during your summer workday! KUR's daytime summertime format when no student specialty shows are on-air has been re-branded as "The KUR Diner," playing a massive menu of songs from the past seven decades, 4,000+ songs to be exact. Imagine listening to the radio and not hearing a repeat for a WEEK. No other station can tout that. Classic pop, golden oldies, and a touch of soulful modern jazz, with a relaxing yet energizing spin. Listen to KUR at work all summer by streaming us live at <http://www.kutztown.edu/KUR> and clicking "Listen Live." KUR's students have worked hard over the past year to improve the community daytime format and the product is now here, being broadcast through two new state-of-the-art digital audio boards and a newly rebuilt, state-of-the-art computer server. And speaking of those students, they return to the airwaves later this week with the start of summertime specialty shows. For updates on when specialty shows are airing this summer, make sure to "Like" our Facebook page.

Associate Professor of Psychology Dr. Avidan Milevsky and his students: Alaina Klause, Ashley Rodriguez, Kristine Hernandez, Chayanne Bowman, Kevin Gee, and Nina Ross, presented four papers at the Association for Psychological Sciences conference in New York City, May 21-24. Paper titles were "A Phenomenological Study of Sibling Relationships in Adulthood," "Preoccupation with Divorce and Attachment in Young Adults," "Development of the Parenting Enjoyment Scale (PES)," and "Cross-cultural Variations in Sibling Relationships and Psychological Well-Being."
